REVIMA Achieves Top Rankings In Cathay Pacific Group's Scorecard Rating for the first half of 2018

Both APU and Landing Gear activities of REVIMA have achieved top rankings in Cathay Pacific's supplier scorecard rating, CISQAS, in first half of 2018. The APU ranked #1 in Cathay Pacific's supplier ratings, while the Landing Gear took second place.

The CISQAS rating is performed twice a year by Cathay Pacific's Procurement and Aircraft Trading Department to measure suppliers' performance in six different areas: Cost, Innovation, Satisfaction, Quality, Assurance of Supply and Sustainability.

"We are extremely proud of this accomplishment, particularly with a highly demanding customer committed to quality and reliability. We have been working with Cathay Pacific for more than 15 years, on various APU & Landing Gear Models, installed on 747 and A300-600 freighters, 777 and A320 aircraft applications. We view our relationship as a real partnership, with a goal to continuously improve and learn from each other." commented Olivier Legrand, President & CEO of Revima.

"The Cathay Pacific Group constantly strives to provide our passengers with safe, comfortable and timely air travel," said Neil Glenn, Cathay Pacific Director Engineering. "Revima have consistently provided excellent and reliable maintenance services to our group of airlines and have demonstrated a high level of responsiveness that helps us better meet the demands of our customers."
